D-Link International Pte Ltd, 11 September 2009– D-Link, the end-to-end network solutions provider for consumers and businesses, today announced that its business solution product lines, which offer one of the industry’s most comprehensive products portfolio, will now come with Limited Lifetime Warranty (LLW) to give its customers great confidence and assurance of quality products purchased.

Beginning October 1, 2009, D-Link business solution products purchased from D-Link or through its authorized reseller or distributor will be covered by this LLW for as long as the product is owned by the original customer, or up to a five year period after the product’s discontinuance, whichever occurs first. This new warranty will apply across D-Link’s business solution products, which include unmanaged, smart and managed switches, business wireless, and firewall security appliances.

"Warranty, product support and product quality have always been areas of concern for many businesses," said Irene Lim, Area Manager "With this limited lifetime warranty, we hope to provide our customers the ability to plan with confidence their network development roadmap for the future without having to worry about wastage of previously invested resources or product quality."

Besides providing assurance of support, the LLW also means the assurance of quality. Quality is an area D-Link has constantly focused on in ensuring the efficiency of D-Link’s value chain. When it comes to providing quality, D-Link abides by a set of rules, and it is not limited to just product quality, but also service quality, documentation quality, process quality, sales force quality, marketing quality, communication quality, and more.
